

While your employer provides you with medical insurance there are still out of pocket expenses such as deductibles, loss of earnings and other out-of-pocket expenses associated with an illness, accident or death. Supplemental insurance policies are designed to fill the gaps in your primary health care plan. These policies can pay cash benefits directly to you, unless you choose otherwise. With these insurance policies, you choose the types of coverage you want and pay for them through payroll deduction. Moreover, all supplemental policies pay benefits regardless of any other insurance you may have.
